

Science Friction (Sci-Fi Gay Erotica)

Science nerd Tyler Mann is thrilled to learn that he's landed his dream job interning for renowned bio-engineer Dr. Miriam Ho at BioWerx. After he earns her trust, Dr. Ho promises to let him begin working with her on her latest top-secret project. An embarrassing mistake nearly costs Tyler his job. Now he will have to prove himself in order to save his career by allowing Dr. Ho to use his hot body to demonstrate her wondrous creation to potential buyers. He withstands humiliation, pleasure and pain as his body is probed, sucked and fucked in full view of a room full of board members. Will it be enough to save his job? This probing tale contains descriptions of tentacle fucking, anal sex, cock sucking, and more and is intended for mature adults only.

Excerpt: Tyler yelled and began trying to fling the creature off the end of his arm, flailing this way and that. No matter how much force he used, the blob would slide down his hand an inch or so only to immediately slurp its way back up. Tyler was frantic, trying desperately to free his hand. It seemed the more frenzied his movements, the more the creature clung to him. After a few moments, he began to weaken, exhausted by the struggle. To his amazement, as he slowed his jerky movements, the blob began to loosen its hold on his hand. He stopped moving completely and watched, wide-eyed, as the creature relaxed flaccidly on his hand. He was able to peel it off easily, and it shrunk down into a misshapen lump in the palm of his other hand. Only then did Tyler notice that the parts of his hand to which the blob had been clinging was now slick with some kind of substance. He rubbed his thumb and forefinger together and the mucousy film felt slick, almost like ... well, almost like come, he decided. Curiosity got the best of him and before he could question the wisdom of such an idea, he brought his slimy fingers to his mouth. Even before tasting it, he recognized the musky odor.

He hadn't been with many women in his young life -- only two, to be exact -- but the fragrance was unmistakable and powerful olfactory memories caused his cock to lurch in his pants. Tyler had no idea what was going on here, but his reaction to it was almost primal. He touched the gelatinous ball again, even more curious about its properties. Remembering its clinginess to his frantic movements, he experimented by rubbing the top of it furiously with two fingers. Instantly, the blob began wrapping itself around the fingers, clamping around them with the strength of a Chinese finger trap. He slowed his movements and the blob again retreated. Tyler could smell the essence of sex clearly now. He knew he shouldn't, but he just had to know how it would feel to have that soft blob of faux flesh seized around his cock. He loosened his pants with one hand, still holding the fleshy ball with his other. He lowered his underwear slightly and reached into his shorts, pulling out his rapidly hardening member. A stroke or two was all that was needed to stiffen his cock into a flagpole position. He paused for a second before proceeding, hoping that this wouldn't be the last foolish act of his life, but the promise of that soft flesh enveloping his swollen cock proved too enticing to resist.
