Kintigh has also published a book called The Lies We Tell Ourselves and sacrifices himself in order to help thousands of parents who are at their wits end with their teens who have left the home. This book is to not only help you find your teen but it is a book for the parents who are going through the tough time. We will not allow you to complain or fall apart of the situation and we are not going to feel sorry for you. We are here to help keep you up and not down. Parents need to be supported and feeling bad for you is not one of the ways. You are the reason your teen will come home and we make every effort to provide you with the tools and mindset necessary to push through this time. Every minute on the street does not mean that your teen is closer to death. As a Christian I believe if it is your time then nothing we do will change that. Since that is probably not the case for your runaway teen, we will focus on the bigger problem. That problem is that your teen will get into bad habits, in a bad situation and will become familiar with the ways of the street. Time is of the importance so you and your teenager can recover from this trying time. On the Run is more than just a guide for parents. It is a story of 2 parents who over came this horrible experience 3 times and today have a teenager who has learned the lesson of why being at home is the best place for her. The resources in this book include local and state laws you should investigate, statistics on teen runaways, places to look for your teen, how to use social media to track down your teenager and their friends, how to equip your self for the long haul and why your teen will probably come home on their own.
